

GEM IDENTIFICATION REPORT and EVALUATION FOR INSURANCE

Prepared for: to whom it may concern
Date: September 26, 2014
Number: g3414

The item described below was carefully examined by an independent gemological laboratory, and/or by the person(s) named below, and the following information compiled for this report on the date indicated. The testing techniques used in preparing this report include using 10x Magnification, GIA Gem Set color system, GIA clarity system, and may also include the following lab tests : refractive index, UV response, spectral analysis, specific gravity, polarization, and/or microscope. The color, clarity, and carat weight are only estimates. This report is only intended to be used to obtain insurance, and is not valid or defensible if used for other purposes.

We herewith certify that we have this day carefully examined the following listed and described article:

Identification : Natural Chrysoberyl, variety "ALEXANDRITE"
Carat Weight : 0.57⁰ carats
Cut / Shape : Pear shape, mixed cut
Measurements : 6.16x4.61mm x 2.94mm deep
Color (GIA Gem Set): vstbG 5/2 - stpR 5/2 - very strongly bluish-Green, Medium Tone, slightly Brownish Saturation (daylight), changing to strongly purplish-Red, Medium Tone, very slightly Brownish Saturation (incandescent light)
Clarity (GIA System) : SI-2, Type II – lightly included to the unaided eye
Symmetry & Finish : Very Good
Probable Origin : Color and inclusions indicate Urals, Russia, Origin (records indicate the Malyshevskaya mine, Ekaterinburg area)
Comments : There is no evidence of any treatments to the stone

The foregoing Statement is made with complete understanding that we assume no liability with respect to any action that may be taken on the basis of this Identification Report. In making this Identification Report and evaluation for Insurance, we DO NOT agree to purchase and/or replace the article(s) at any price.

In-House Gemologist

